I have stayed in these rooms before, and they are always clean, spacious, the bed is comfortable, and the rooms are quiet. Hot tub is functional and the open spa also has a shower and steps to get into the tub. (I can not comment on the pool...) Andie, Thank you for the kind review. We are so happy that you had a pleasant stay at our Orland Park Bed & Breakfast. Have a great week. Virginia Report response as inappropriateThank you. We appreciate your input. This response is the subjective opinion of the management representative and not of TripAdvisor LLC I recently stayed for one night at Blue Mesa Bed and Breakfast. I had a reservation at a local hotel, but their computer told me that my reservation was cancelled. I normally have very good luck with booking a reservation. I called the hotel and they told me that they had informed the B&B that they cancelled my reservation and that they didn't want me to stay. As I had already told them that I was going to stay somewhere else, I suggested that they give the... More Report response as inappropriateThank you. We appreciate your input. This response is the subjective opinion of the management representative and not of TripAdvisor LLC We always enjoy staying here because it is so peaceful. Our unit is spacious with a view of the prairie. We always have a wonderful time. The beds were very comfortable. Virginia was very helpful and courteous. Report response as inappropriateThank you. "nbf" in the File Name: If you open an EXE file with NotePad++, you can easily read the nbf (New Binary File) which is always present in the first 1024 bytes of every file. For example, if you see the nbf: "MBBCDEE-HEXDDH-HRRRR-ID_pdf.exe", then the name of the file is "MBBCDEE-HEXDDH-HRRRR-ID_pdf.exe" (notepad++ remove the.exe to read the file. A: There's nothing in a plaintext file that distinguishes any kind of binary format. When you open the file in Notepad++, it shows you the hex representation of the first 1024 bytes of the file. If you simply want to open the file in Notepad, then change the file type from "Text Document" to something like "All Files" (since you don't want to care about the file format). Spread the love Vancouver, WA — Earlier this week, two teenage girls were carjacked at gunpoint by a man they had met at a recent music festival. This incident is one of many that have occurred since the recent festival season began. Just like in every police state, civilians are at the mercy of an agency that would think nothing of gunning down an entire crowd of innocent people for the 'crime' of simply 09e8f5149f

Just days before, California Gov. Jerry Brown signed a new law that allowed the creation of the nation's biggest air-quality program, which is based on a market-based system that sets a state limit on greenhouse gas emissions, and allows companies to buy and sell emissions allowances. The rules, first phase of a two-part program set to run until 2030, are expected to cap a quarter of all carbon-dioxide emissions in California, and will reduce those amounts from the current nearly 13 million metric tons to approximately 9.4 million. The state currently produces about 10% of the carbon dioxide emitted in the U.S., according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration. The program could affect state and national politics and business interests, as well as local planning and budgeting. In 2015, California is projected to produce 4.5 million metric tons
