Well, a Majestic Lighthouse Screensaver by Loren Drost, a true master in animation, combining the joy of nature with cool clock and weather forecast gadgets. Startup problems: ❖❓ Slow when starting up ❖❓ Sometimes, after restarting, both programs (lighthouse and clock) freeze. ❖❓ When using 7-zip to extract all in one file, "Program cannot find the file". ❖❓ Sometimes, the application stops responding. ❖❓ Windows 2000 uses 16 bits ❖❓ Sometimes, when changing screensaver, the picture looks fuzzy or not well defined.

❖❓ Sometimes, when changing languages, the message (translated into a different language) is placed on top of the lighthouse. ❖❓

Sometimes, when changing back to Dutch, the top piece of the lighthouse is placed above the bottom piece. ❖❓ Sometimes, you have to wait for the second press of the menu key. ❖❓

Sometimes, the clock doesn't stop ticking when entering a screensaver. ❖❓

Sometimes, the clock seems faster than it actually is. ❖❓ Your screen may be blank. Just press the PrintScreen key. (You should also make sure your home page settings are correct.) ❖❓ Your sound card is not recognized. No sound output is there. ❖❓ Some feature are not available. Try changing languages. ❖❓ You must wait for the sun to start shining. Just don't get in your way. Foggy Hours - is a screensaver with a refreshing atmosphere, where we look at a beautiful sunrise with a fog, but this time it is the fog which is visible. At the same time, the sun rises gradually, the fog becomes weaker and the colors become clearer, the sun becomes brighter. When the sunrise is completed, the fog disappears. The last part of the animated screensaver is an extreme difference between sunlight and moonlight, to make it even more interesting. This screensaver perfectly reflects the image of the day and is suitable for watching in the mornings, and for those with a creative mind. To view the screensaver, you need to have an office clock, sound cards, a 32-bit VGA screen and 256 MB of RAM. Additional features: calendar, world clock, weather forecast, a list of current and recently viewed pages, internal database.
