It should allow single quotes to enter in TextView but should not let the double quotes. Actually my string contains some double quotes. I tried using \ to escape the single quotes but it doesn't help. Please help. A: Use the String.replace() method to replace the double quotes. The String.replace() method is used to replace characters in a String object. String single = ""hello""; Single Double Single Double hello hello 'hello' 'hello' String single = ""hello""; String str = single.replace(""", "\\""); String single = ""hello""; String str = single.replace("\\"", """); double quote is \\ and single quote is \ str = "hello" r in the heart of Ancient Greece. "The priestess treated to the food first," the magians said, "and the king, to put an end to suspicion, took half of it and passed it on to the queen; but the priestess and [other magians] went round the table and distributed to each one separately all the rest of the food, explaining to everyone that it was specially prepared by Apollo and Artemis, so that, except the king, no one should deny eating it." I would like to replace certain characters from a list of characters. The number of elements in this list is decided by a parameter x. I was originally thinking I could create a function and just run that over the column def replace_A(data, x, list_of_characters): for each in list_of_characters: for df in data: df.A = list_of_characters[each] Is there any clever way of doing this? A: I would do something like: def myFunc(data, y): list = [list of unique characters] #you can decide how many characters you need df["A"] = data.replace("1","ABC", "2","DEF", "3","ABCDEF") #or df["A"] = data.replace("1","ABC", "2","DEF", "3","ABC
